Library requests county to allocate more funding

BY LIZ HAAS
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors heard from representatives of the Library System who asked the county to consider increasing the library funding from two to three mills. Library board member Evelyn Johnson gave a presentation on the need for increased funding for the library. Johnson displayed a graph showing the unprecedented growth of library use since 1990 and employed the board to consider more adequate funding for the library system in the 1993-1994 budget. Library director Prima Plauche announced the library is receiving $400,000 in state construction grant funds for renovations and expansions to the headquarters library. "That, combined with county and city funds, will allow us to add 7,000 square feet to the building and to renovate the existing 8,000 square foot building," she said. Plauche thanked the supervisors for supporting the project. "For every .40 cents the city and county has allocated, the library system is getting .60 cents from state funds," she said. Plauche said the library anticipates being awarded a $200,000 furniture and equipment grant it applied for. "This project is the first phase in addressing long-range plans," she said, "We are enlarging the headquarters and administrative complex and are going to expand the Kiln Library." Library patron Roy Burkhardt presented over 600 cards of appreciation and support of library services. On behalf of library users in Hancock County, he asked for the supervisor's continued support to the library. The board approved to take the matter under advisement. Library board member Joyce Lee extended an invitation to the supervisor to attend the groundbreaking ceremony on September 12. NEW INDUSTRY

Port and Harbor Commission executive director Buz Olsen presented an agreement with Manufab, a metal fabrication company, to move into the Port Bienville Industrial Park. "They have been in business for 20 years, with offices in Kenner, La., and Harrison County and want to expand their business here," said Olsen. Olsen said the company would create 15-20 new jobs. Manufab would pay $7,500

1 hurt, 3 arrested at Sycamore Street melee

BY DAVID A. FARRELL

Three persons were arrested on Saturday night by Bay St. Louis police during an altercation involving 21 officers and an unruly crowd of between 100 and 150 persons on Sycamore Street, according to Chief Detective Tom Burleson.

Arrested were Ronnie Lyons, 27, 408 Sycamore; Bradford Frederick, 20, 120 Michael Drive; and Wes Dedeaux, 26, 623 Kellar Street.

The three were charged with disorderly conduct while Lyons and Frederick were additionally charged with resisting arrest, according to Burleson.

The incident involved throwing of bottles by the crowd, and at one point officers used mace to push the crowd away from patrol cars, said Burleson.

One officer was injured when he was hit in the head by a bottle and another officer had to be forcefully pulled away from the crowd.

Burleson said the incident began when two officers responded to a call of a fight at 408 Sycamore at about 11:50 p.m. on Saturday. He said a party was taking place at that location.

He said officers asked that the loud music be turned down but instead it was turned up. Officers then directed that the music be turned off and spoke with Lyons.

Following an altercation between Lyons and the officers, Lyons was arrested, and additional officers were summoned to the scene.

"We have direct questions like, why did the officers use mace and why were the back-ups called?"

—Lang

Burleson said the crowd pushed its way toward the patrol car and one Bay officer had to be pulled away from the crowd. He said that mace was then used to force the crowd to back away from the patrol cars.

Bay Council approves local waste management agreement

BY DAVID A. FARRELL

The Bay St. Louis City Council on Tuesday night gave its approval to a solid waste management agreement that will see Waveland, Bay St. Louis and Hancock County jointly tackle the waste disposal problem here.

However, the agreement left room for each governmental unit to take steps independently that would help them save money on disposing of solid waste.

The agreement was not approved by Bay St. Louis until after long study and negotiations with Hancock supervisors and Waveland officials, and some changes made.

Specifically, changes to the agreement included requiring that all three members of the waste management board be present at a meeting before business can be conducted.

In addition, for the board to take action on any issue or question before it all three members must cast a unanimous vote. That gives each of the three governmental units in the agreement veto power over proposals.

Other changes gave the city councils of Waveland and Bay St. Louis and supervisors the power to review by-laws before they are voted on and adopted by the three-man board, and the option of securing their own collection services.

Currently, Waste Management picks up garbage in Bay St. Louis and Waveland operates its own collection system. Garbage collected here is disposed of in a Harrison County landfill.

Federal and state guidelines have forced governmental units to come up with long-range plans for disposing of solid waste.

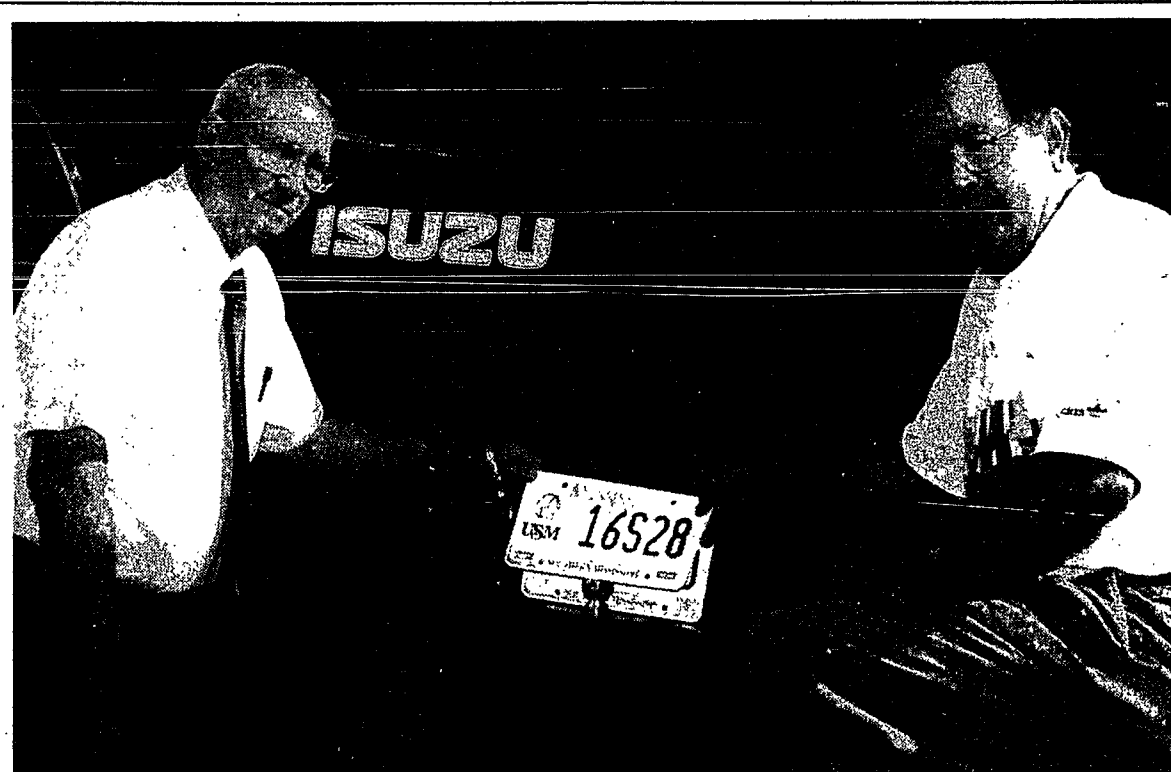

One representative each from Waveland, Bay St. Louis and the county will compose the three-member board.

In other business during Tuesday's meeting, the board set up its schedule for budget hearings with department heads in anticipation for drawing up the new city budget.

In other actions, the council: — Named October as a month for a general cleanup campaign throughout the city. — Passed a resolution of support for a contract to expand the library.

New tags fund scholarships

University of Southern Mississippi Hancock County Alumni Association President Mike Schaefer, right, said income generated by the sale of a new automobile tag bearing the USM logo will be utilized to bolster funding for student scholarships. Hancock County Tax Assessor-Collector Eddie Murtagh, left, noted special tags showing support for each of the state's eight public universities are now available at an additional cost of $50 each. Schaefer said the universities will receive $32.50 for each tag sold bearing their respective logos. Of the remaining $17.50 generated from each sale, $14 will be channeled to a special state highway fund. The county will get $2.50 to defray administrative costs, and $1 will go to the University Burn Center. The tags will not carry the county designation. (Echo staff photo by David Farrell)

Card of Thanks

The family of Steven Lizana extends a sincere thank you and deep appreciation for the many phone calls, visits, food and prayers during our hours of sorrow.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank all of you who were involved with, as well as attended, the benefit for Hannah. It's hard to find the right words to express our gratitude.

Hannah has a very long road ahead of her. But, with the support she has received from this community, the road will be a lot less bumpy.

If Hannah could speak, I know she would be full of thank-you's for everyone. God must be smiling down on this community that is so full of love.

Burleson said that after the three persons who were arrested were removed from the scene and the bulk of officers withdrawn, the situation cooled off. He said several officers remained on the scene to disperse the crowd.

Officers from Waveland, Bay St. Louis and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department were at the scene of the incident.

In the wake of the incident, however, NAACP officials said they plan to call for a thorough investigation by city officials of police actions at the scene after some residents complained at a Tuesday night meeting that the police acted in poor judgement.

Said Geraldine Lang, head of the Hancock County NAACP: "We will ask the mayor and council to perform a complete investigation. We have direct questions like, why did the officers use mace and why were the back-ups called?"

PRCC

Dr. Ted Alexander of Pearl River Community College asked the board to consider giving a 10 percent increase in support funds.

"The college has doubled in the last six years and the revenues are not consistent with the increase, which is making it difficult for us to maintain our services," he said.

Alexander said tuition, which accounts for 20 percent of the budget, has been increased. "The percentage of dollars from county support has declined during a time when we're experiencing very rapid growth," he said.

Alexander asked to meet with the supervisors to discuss the feasibility of a permanent facility in Hancock County.

He said, "We are using classes at Bay Senior High School, Pearl River Community College and the Stennis Center, but we do foresee a need to have something centrally located that can also be utilized during the day."

"There is an increasing percentage of concern expressed by your constituents here. If we had a place to teach them we could do it down here, but we can't do anything without your support," he said.

He said people from Hancock County are having to drive to Picayune which interferes with family and job situations.

"We desire to serve as well as we can the people of Hancock County and feel it is to the advantage of the county to have a permanent facility to meet the needs of students here," said Alexander.

The board decided to take the matter under advisement.

BRIDGE REPAIRS

Residents of the Spruce Street bridge area asked the board not to lower the Spruce Street bridge anymore when reconstructing it.

"Right now, I have to wait for the tide to go out to get my 18 foot boat out," said one resident.

There was discussion by the board at a previous meeting to decrease the elevation of the bridge because it causes a sight hazard.

Residents of the area reported to the board that the danger is how the people drive, not the bridge itself.

The board assured residents their bridge would not be lowered and another method would be taken to repair the bridge.

ROAD REPAIRS

Residents Maybell Newell of Ireland Street and Fran Cracchiola of Eaden Street, Shoreline Park, presented the board with a home-made video of their pick of the worst streets in Hancock County.

The women complained about the conditions of the roads.

"Safety should be our number one priority," said Newell.

"As of June, you have received $749,000 from the casino, surely you can afford to repair some of the roads," said Cracchiola.

Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise said the casino money is in escrow and some has already been earmarked for roads.

"The roads are extremely unsafe and we would like to see you at least get started on repairing them now, just to show us some improvements are being made," said Newell.

"Rest assured this is in place," said Ladner.

Road superintendent Sam Cuevas was instructed to check out the problem.

CHEATING AT GAMBLING

Bay Police Detective Tom Burleson reported Chanh Van Lam, 30, of New Orleans was arrested Tuesday, August 3, at 1:56 a.m. at Casino Magic and charged with cheating at gambling.

Burleson said casino authorities held Lam for pressing bets at Pai Gow Poker until Bay officer Phillip Pavolini arrived on the scene to make the arrest. Lam is being held under a $10,000 bond at the Hancock County Justice Facility.

Detective Burleson is in charge of the investigation.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The Bay St. Louis Anniversary Kick-off Party for the Miss Teen U.S.A. contestants was a tremendous success.

The 51 young ladies really enjoyed themselves. The only complaint they may have had was the temperature.

The heat did not seem to bother their enthusiasm. The young beauties had a good time dancing and talking with many of those in attendance.

Invitation was through Miss Teen U.S.A. because of security purposes.

The kick-off party was the beginning of the 175th anniversary for Bay St. Louis, and it seems the date was just verified the Tuesday before the party.

It is my understanding there will be a big Bay St. Louis celebration some time this fall when all Bay residents will be invited.

I know there was some discussion as to whether 1958 was really the centennial for Bay St. Louis. It seems the city was called Bay St. Louis, then Shieldsborough and returned to the name of Bay St. Louis.

At the party, the food was great, boiled shrimp, crabs, potatoes, corn, snacks and soft drinks. To top it all was a good band playing the music our young people enjoy.

The young men enjoyed meeting and dancing with the visitors, too.

Ruth Thompson of Ruth's Bakery did a tremendous job in making and decorating a large cake shaped like the old City Hall. It was decorated with 175 candles.

The seafood and food items were prepared by many volunteers and were very good.

Don't forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's After Hours set for 5 to 7 this evening at the Peoples Bank, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

I hope to see you there.

FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

By Mike Moore

Contest 'winners' beware!

"We have arranged for you to receive absolutely free, without obligation, and with no purchase necessary, a brand new 1993 Cadillac Fleetwood, BMW, or cash."

This is the message hundreds of Mississippians have recently received in the mail from New York from two different companies with the same Florida address. All that is requested of the consumer is an "optional" $47.

Attorney General Mike Moore warned consumers to be skeptical of such offers. "Most of these letters have similar detail. They don't specify the exact amount of cash the consumer will supposedly receive for the $47. Obviously, no one is going to send a BMW or Cadillac for $47. Unfortunately, some people still fall victim to this type of pitch," said Moore. The Attorney General said that one of the chief problems in putting such firms out of business is the average person's reluctance to admit when he has been defrauded.

"Most of us have been taken by a con artist at one time or another, so there is no shame in reporting the details," Moore said. "We frequently see cases in which individuals have been defrauded several times before seeking help from us."

In most of the schemes involving prizes and cash, those who respond are sent a contract to sign which commits them to pay $100 to the company. Once this is signed, if the $100 does not accompany or immediately follow the signed contract, the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Amtrak experience left much to be desired

Open Letter to Mayor and Board of Supervisors for the City of Bay St. Louis:

I would like some information concerning the Amtrak Station and schedule at the Bay St. Louis stop.

We planned a trip to Florida and decided to try the Amtrak as we had heard so much about it. We were told the only time we could board the train in Bay St. Louis for the Florida trip would be at 12:05 a.m.

We decided we would like to take the trip, so we purchased tickets at a local travel agency. We checked out the station, and to our dismay found there would be no place to leave our car for the week we were gone, so we asked some friends to take us to the station that night, so we could leave our automobile at their home.

When we arrived at the station we found no one around, very little lighting and no phone or restroom facilities. Our friends refused to leave us there by ourselves so they stayed.

We were approached by a young black man, who asked what we were doing there at this time of night. When we told him we were waiting for the train, he seemed to be surprised that a train stopped there. He asked for a schedule and started to walk toward my husband, at which time we noticed he had a large rock in his hand.

My husband told him he did not have one and picked his walking stick up to protect himself if needed. We are senior citizens and feel if we had been there by ourselves he might have tried to attack us. We had to wait almost an hour for the train, as it was late coming from New Orleans.

During this time we saw no patrol cars in the area. We feel that the police should at least patrol this area around the time a train is due in case someone is waiting for the train. With no phone we would not even been able to call for help if we needed it.

When we returned to Bay St. Louis the next week, the train was over three hours late. When we got off the train we had to walk and carry our luggage over a block to find a phone to call someone to come for us.

When we did get a cab about 45 minutes later we were told they do not even try to pick up passengers as the trains are always late.

We were told that if they had brought us to the station they would have just left us there, or if we had requested them to wait they would have charged us $18 per hour. They do not meet the train even if they are called and asked to meet it. If we had called a cab the night we left, we would have been stranded in the middle of the night and in the dark.

Before the election, when they first talked about a stop in Bay St. Louis, they could not do enough work, cut grass and landscape the area, but now seems it has been forgotten.

What happened to all the money they got, according to the papers, for this work? Could a little concrete and three or four light bulbs cost over a million dollars?

I feel our town officials and Amtrak have let the citizens of Bay St. Louis and surrounding areas down. What is wrong with our police? Just a ride by the area every 30 minutes or so when a train is due would help. Just the presence of police in the area would help. Portable restrooms would sure help older people and also younger ones if they have to wait.

We watched going and coming, and at most all the stops there were phones, porta-potties, plenty of light and most of the time one or two police cars.

What's wrong with our city? Where are all the promises? Where is all the money? What has happened to Amtrak? They promised if they had a stop they would have these things.

Clermont Harbor

Waveland would see no advantage in annexation

Dear Editor:

In response to Mr. Perry Gibson's vision for developing Waveland along the lines of Panama City and annexing Clermont Harbor, let me state a few of my objections.

If I thought Panama City was such a great place, I would be living there.

Annex Clermont Harbor? The harbor has everything to gain — Waveland would gain nothing but trouble and expense.

With the drinking, drag racing, off-road trucks on the beach, illegal bonfires that at times close Beach Boulevard, I can imagine the Waveland Police Department trying to control that situation.

Then Waveland will have the expense of supplying fire protection, water, gas, etc. Where is the tax base in Clermont to cover this expense? I fail to see where it is.

Gambling houses, bar rooms, prostitution and drugs are no assets to a community. We have to admit one follows the other. They are all addictive activities.

We don't have to go far to see the decay when these activities are permitted. The beautiful Mississippi Gulf Coast is being ruined by these out-of-towners with their million dollars of questionable origin.

I hope and pray that our mayor and other governing officials keep Waveland the residential community that it has always been.

Keep the zoning tight on our waterfront and on Hwy. 90. If our officials can keep Waveland as is, it will shine as a diamond between all the sleaze that surrounds it.

Sincerely,
A. P. Badeaux

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Lifting gay ban is a mistake

About six months ago, President Clinton put into motion a controversial effort to lift the ban on gays in the military. And, on July 19, the president announced a proposal that is fraught with problems.

In announcing it, the president called this proposal "the right thing to do" and "the right way to do it." I disagree.

The president's first mistake was making a campaign promise to homosexuals to lift the ban. He made another mistake when he tried to keep the promise and lift the ban. His latest mistake is the new policy itself. The military should not be used as a laboratory for social experiments and any policy affecting the military should first have to pass the following test: Would his policy have a positive impact on the ability of our military to protect and defend our nation and its interests?

I believe the president's proposed policy fails this test miserably.

When the answer is "no" and there is no overriding reason to change a longstanding policy, then the policy should not be changed. The president says he was elected to bring about change, but this isn't the kind of change most Americans had in mind.

Many of us in Congress were willing to accept Senator Nunn's compromise policy of "don't ask, don't tell." It's not perfect, but the real problems with gays and lesbians in the military occurs when these soldiers make their homosexual preference known to their colleagues.

Unfortunately, the president's policy goes too far beyond "don't ask, don't tell." It would allow openly gay and lesbian soldiers to serve in the military as long as it was not proven that they were committing homosexual acts.

This proposed policy is short of the president's campaign promise to gays and lesbians, but it still goes too far.

Another provision of the policy would prohibit military authorities from investigating complaints or allegations of homosexual conduct unless there is "credible" evidence. This vague legal standard is an open invitation for lawsuits from gay and lesbian soldiers who have been investigated and determined to be engaging in improper conduct.

This policy would break down unit cohesion and undermine retention and recruitment. Even without the president's plans for drastic cuts in the military, this policy would result in a weakened military. With the cuts and the new gay policy, there is the potential for a devastating effect on our military's ability to do its job.

The president's policy will not go into effect until Congress has its say. As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, it is my goal to ensure that we do not make any policy change that will damage our military's ability to protect the national security of this country.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: U.S. Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (c/o Press Office)

Tax and spend no way to reduce our deficit

To the Editor:

Dan (Stamps) Rostenkowski, Tom (IPO) Foley, Pat (S.S. Tax) Moynihan and George (Yachts) Mitchell, along with Bill (Slick Willie) Clinton are getting ready to "sock" the American taxpayer with the largest tax increase in history.

All this in the name of deficit reduction! Never has tax increases reduced the deficit. Only reduced spending and eliminating government waste can do that.

The politicians listed above try and make us believe that the current deficit was caused by Reagan's tax cuts of 1981.

However, the Office of Management and Budget reports federal revenues rose after the tax cut from $617 billion in 1982 to $1,161 billion in 1992. During the same period government spending rose from $745 billion to $1,456 billion.

From the above facts provided by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, one can conclude that the deficit is caused by Congress' out-of-control spending — not by Americans paying too few taxes!

Are we willing to trust these guys with more tax dollars? It's not too late. Write or call them along with our congressman and senators!

Do you think Waveland should annex Bayou Caddy in anticipation of the opening of Bayou Caddy casino?

"I don't think we need the revenues from the casino to run the city of Waveland. We need a more sound political structure."

Sara Foster
Waveland

"I definitely think it should because that's the most disappointment now that Waveland is not getting any casino money. We should get something since the casinos are supposed to help the community."

Yvonne Silvestri
Waveland

"I think the city should because the gambling monies can help our tax base. Everyone else has it so we might as well get into it too. I don't see that it would hurt the area."

Raymond Norton
Waveland

"Not really. This will encourage people to move here and Waveland does not have any money as it is. This will bring in more traffic and unfamiliar faces, crowding up the city."

Donna Collins
Waveland

"Yes, I think the city could use the revenues, however, I think the city has annexed enough areas that it is not providing city services to now. The city has to be willing to take on the responsibility of providing all city services to all the annexed areas."

County's waste management plan approved by commission

The Mississippi Commission on Environmental Quality approved the Hancock County Solid Waste Management Plan at its regular meeting on July 22.

Required by the Mississippi Nonhazardous Solid Waste Planning Act of 1991, the plan is expected to be the principle document guiding the management of solid waste in Hancock County over the next 20 years.

The plan indicates that the county will construct a landfill at a site in the northern half of the county which it received a permit for in 1990.

It will not proceed with the construction if it receives an acceptable bid for disposal in a privately-owned facility outside the county.

The plan also calls for the construction of a new county rubbish disposal site, a waste tire collection site to receive scrap tires from the general public and small businesses, a yard waste processing facility, and a strategy for reducing the amount of solid waste generated in the county by 25 percent by January 1, 1996.

The plan also allows Missisissippi Pumping Service to construct and operate a commercial rubbish facility and Wilbert Thompson to operate a waste tire processing facility.

With the approval of the plan, the moratorium imposed by law three years ago is removed, thereby allowing the Department of Environmental Quality to review and process applications for solid waste management facilities included in the approved plan.

Any interested person may request that a hearing be conducted regarding the issuance of the order approving the plan.

Such requests must be made in accordance with state law by writing to J. I. Palmer Jr., executive director, Department of Environmental Quality, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39289, no later than Aug. 25, 1993.

"It's bad enough to have been conned but this scheme adds insult to injury by sending irritating bills for the goods which haven't been received," Moore said. He explained that individuals and companies operating scams like this usually have a number of aliases and addresses to make them difficult to locate.

"Although many people don't want to hear this, there is no such thing as a 'free lunch.' Consumers should never send any money up front as this company requests. Never sign anything without thoroughly reading it, and whatever you do, don't give your credit card or bank account number when talking to a stranger on the phone or sending in a contest entry," Moore added. FoodSOURCE signup set Signup for this month's FoodSHARE, now going by the name FoodSOURCE, distribution is through August 15. Food delivery date is August 28, from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.

In order to comply with Mississippi state tax laws, FoodSOURCE must now collect a 7 percent sales tax on all units not purchased with food stamps.

People who sign up for the program pay $14 in food stamps or $14.98 with cash or check for each grocery packet they want and volunteer two hours of community service per packet. One dollar of the amount goes for transportation costs.

The community service must be completed prior to the delivery date. All orders must be paid by the August 15 deadline.

A packet consists of frozen meats, fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables and bonus items such as pinto beans, rice and seasoning.

In order to protect frozen foods and to ensure fruit and vegetable freshness, Hancock FoodSHARE hours for pick up will be from 8 a.m.-9:30 a.m.

A needed facelift

Navy volunteers give Our Lady Academy classrooms a new hue for back to school

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Our Lady Academy principal Sister Donella Hartman returned from a summer trip to a most pleasant surprise.

Six classrooms, a hall and two bathrooms in Johnson Hall were freshly painted in pleasing pastel colors.

Always on a tight budget, the school had enough money to purchase the paint, but could not afford the labor to have the work done.

Enter the Naval Oceanographic Office at Stennis Space Center. Through the Personal Excellence Partnership Program (PEP), 19 volunteers spent a day giving the school a makeover.

Coordinating the project were Navy officers LTJG Butch Seefried and PEP coordinator Chief Miles Axtell.

PEP is a Navy sponsored initiative to foster partnerships between the Navy and public and private sector organizations to assist schools or youth-related groups for the purpose of strengthening education, health, fitness and citizenship.

Other projects throughout the year include providing guest speakers on many topics, science fair judges and offering demonstrations such as three learning stations at Waveland Elementary last year.

PEP volunteers come from a pool of 1,000 civil employees and active military. Participation is strictly voluntary.

Several area schools have been 'adopted' by the Naval Oceanographic office, although it is not a pre-requisite for obtaining assistance from the office.

"We are presently planning a bake sale or car wash to benefit the Toy Library (for severely handicapped children)," said Axtell. "We will serve as liaison for them in trying to get the Seabees to do some construction work."

PEP's donations usually come in the form of labor, but occasionally funds may be raised specifically for a needed project.

Last year Bay Middle School was re-painted by PEP volunteers.

Sister Donella noted the paint job was "professional," and said the work never would have gotten done without the Navy's assistance.

LTJG John Nystrom

LeFave completes anthropology study

Pat LeFave, RN, a resident of Lakeshore and an employee of Methodist Hospital, New Orleans, recently completed a course in the anthropological study of the American Indian with The College of St. Frances, Joliet, Ill.

LeFave spent two weeks on the Navajo, Hopi, Zuni and Taos reservations of Arizona and New Mexico discussing current issues regarding health care, education and economic development with tribal leaders.

LeFave was also entertained in the home of Nan Talhonga, a Hopi woman who teaches English at the Hopi High School. She toured the Indian Health Service Hospital at Chinle, Ariz.

She met Alex Seowtewa, an internationally known Zuni artist and muralist. He completed a mural with the assistance of his sons which adorns the walls of the Old Catholic Mission, which dates back to 1629.

The course was conducted by Dr. James Coffin, cultural anthropologist from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

After completion of these studies, LeFave received a degree in health science from the College of St. Frances.

Mercer takes on Willis Aug. 12

Special to the Echo
Embattled heavyweight Ray Mercer will enter the ring for the first time since his controversial upset loss to Philadelphia's Jesse Ferguson, when he meets Tony Willis at the Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis Aug. 12.

Presented by Top Rank, the fight will be televised live at 8 p.m. by ESPN.

Mercer, 32, the 1988 Olympic champion, is under indictment by the district attorney's office in New York for allegedly offering Ferguson a bribe to lose their fight on Feb. 6.

For Mercer, it was only his second setback against 20 wins, but it cost him a chance at IBF/WBA heavyweight champion Riddick Bowe. Bowe knocked out Ferguson on May 22 in the second round.

Mercer will be looking for his 16th knockout victim in Willis, 31, from Chicago. Willis (21-6, 16 KOs), suffered at TKO in the fifth round of his California State championship bout against Lionel Butler, in Reseda, Calif., Feb. 23. He is a former NABF and USBA light heavyweight champion.

Mercer's most impressive showing was a devastating fifth-round knockout of WBO heavyweight champion Tommy Morrison in October, 1991. One fight away from a title shot, he lost a 12-round decision to former world champion Larry Holmes on Feb. 7, 1992.

Also scheduled is a battle of undefeated cruiserweights, Russian Sergei Kobozov (15-0, 12 KOs) taking on Boston's John Ruiz (14-0, 9 KOs).

Kobozov, who recently turned 29, was born in St. Petersburg. His first six pro fights were in Russia, all resulting in knockouts. His U.S. debut came on June 20, a six-round decision over Frank DePree in Parsippany, N.J. The former Russian champion scored an eight-round decision over Dan Wofford in Uniondale, N.Y. in his last fight on May 21.

Ruiz, who has fought exclusively in New England, has competed as a heavyweight twice, flooring Jesus Rohena and Derrick Jones with first round knockouts. The 21-year-old last fought on June 25, taking an eight-round decision against Exum Speight, in Chelsea, Mass.

Bay St. Louis 11-12 year olds finish second in state tourney

The Bay St. Louis Little League 11 and 12 year old All-Stars ended the season with a solid performance in the state Little League tournament in D'Iberville over the weekend. The All-Stars began the tournament by beating D'Iberville in extra innings 9 to 8. Steven Knight was the leading hitter, including a two-run home run. Branden Everett scored the winning run on a double by Brantley Ladner in the bottom of the seventh.

Steven Knight was the winning pitcher in relief of Gary Yarbrough.

D'Iberville defeated Hattiesburg 32-2 in the losers bracket to set the stage for the rematch between Bay St. Louis and D'Iberville.

Bay St. Louis came on strong against D'Iberville with a three-run homer in the top of the first by Justin Wadesworth. D'Iberville gained the lead for good in the bottom of the second, scoring five runs on their way to a 12-5 victory.

Kyle Foster was the leading hitter with two hits. He also absorbed the loss on the mound.

The final game was a hard-fought battle between the two teams with D'Iberville securing the state title by the score of 6-4.

Bay St. Louis was led at the plate by Justin Wadesworth, giving two to three including his second home run of the tournament.

Steven Mauffray also homered in the fifth inning to tie the game at 4-4.

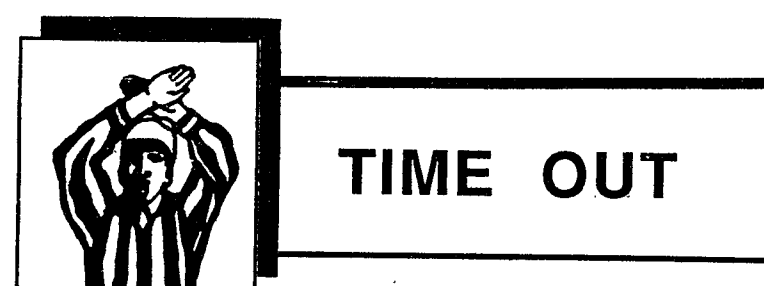

D'Iberville scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth to claim the championship.

Steven Knight absorbed the loss in relief of the starter Brantley Ladner.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Coma-a-ty-ya-yippa-yippa-yea, man the redfish in front of Buccaneer State Park are so big that ya don't even need a fishin' pole to catch them, I am told by my usually-reliable, once-in-awhile-reliable, aw-heck-they-lie-a-lot fishin' buddies, that they put their poles away when they go to the surf in front of Buccaneer.

They explained to me, in great length, how they tie the knots in their rope — to make the lasso they use to catch the big reds. They don't use horses because they say that horses pollute the water and the beaches. They leave the horses home, but they bring their saddles and bridles.

Because the Turtle is sometimes a little slow on the uptake he naturally had to ask the stupid question of why they needed the saddles to catch the big redfish. As was explained to him, he should have known the answer. They use the saddle to ride the redfish into shore after they lasso them with the rope. Man, those have to be some really big redfish.

Since the Turtle didn't have a saddle, he decided to check out if anyone was able to catch the big reds without a lasso. Sure enough, some folks were able to do a number on the reds with a rod and reel.

The rod and reel fisherman were using live finger mullet, about four or five inches long fished about 24 inches under a cork. Some folks did not use a cork, but opted to fish on the lunch without any worry of turning into "blackened redfish." They just broke the line and got way.

To catch the reds you gotta go out into the surf to about three to three and a half feet of water. How are you gonna get your saddle on that fish if he don't flounders. Keep this in mind next time you feel like breaking out the lantern and the trusty spear.

For those folks that don't want to share the water with stingrays in order to catch redfish, the Turtle got a report of redfish around Munroe's pier and several of the other piers.

The only trouble with fishing for redfish by Munroe's pier is that the darn things are so plentiful that you gotta walk on the backs of the reds instead of on the sand bottom. You must admit this can be a difficult task, especially since they move around and won't keep still.

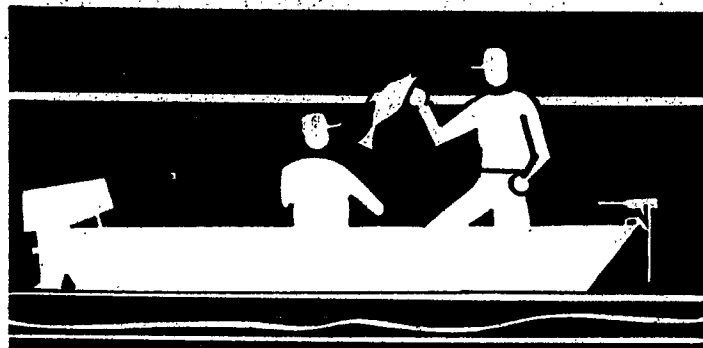

The type of bait that is working around Munroe's pier, instead of a lasso, is live finger mullet. The same type of tackle that is successful in front of Buccaneer Park is successful by Munroe's and the other piers.

You should be aware that the green men with the flashing blue lights have been out in their boat checking on size limits. They are driving their boat right up to the fishermen standing in the surf to make size limit check. Be sure you obey the law on size limits, especially for the size on redfish which is 22 inches.

Live shrimp are now in short supply. It seems that this is the time of year that the brown shrimp slow down to make room for the white shrimp. The shortage of shrimp means that it is time to break out the plastic baits. Sparkle beetle time is here.

This week's wonderful wise words: The salt water fishing license is now available at the usual places.

What type of spurs do you use when you ride redfish, Turtle?

bottom. Their rig was set up with the sinker as the terminal of the tackle and the hook with the live mullet was about 12 to 18 inches above the sinker.

Both the cork fishermen and the bottom fishermen said it was big-time plenty important to have a good strong leader. The big reds just laughed at people who did not use a leader.

To the reds, not using a leader was an invitation to a free have enough water to ride in?

A big, huge, humungus, warning about wade fishin' in front of Jackson Ridge Bayou. The Turtle can't remember a time when he has seen so many stingrays in one place, at one time, in a month of Sundays.

Man, those things are all over the place just looking for somebody's foot to stick their barb into. If you wade fish this area, be sure to shuffle your feet on the bottom. Under no circumstances should you go tromping through the water without looking where you are stepping.

The big number of stingrays in the water around Jackson Ridge Bayou tell you something about what type of fish this area attracts. That something is that there are mucho plenty flat fish to be speared at night in this area. That's right, where there are stingrays there are usually

Concert in the Park

Bay Business Assn. hosts "Smilin' Myron"

Smilin' Myron

The Bay St. Louis Business Association's free Concert in the Park on Friday, August 13, at 6 p.m. will feature Smilin' Myron, an original New Orleans funk band.

The band, typically packing in houses at Tipitina's, Jimmy's and Storyville, has developed a strong national following of dedicated supporters with three tours of the Northeast.

Smilin' Myron has become a regular opening act for The Meters, and have been nominated as "Best Emerging Group" for this year's "Big Easy Awards," New Orleans' own Grammy awards hosted by John Goodman.

They are currently producing their first CD and will be touring in support of it this summer.

The casual concert will be in Bay St. Louis City Park on the tennis courts.

Hot dogs, hamburgers, coke, beer and ice cream will be served.

The public is invited to bring tables and chairs or lawn chairs and listen to the sound of Smilin' Myron.

Contact concert chairman Ruth Thompson at 467-8201 for more information.

Nereids plans annual fish fry, dance Aug. 14

The Krewe of Nereids hosts its annual Family Fish Fry Saturday, Aug. 14 4-8 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road in Bay St. Louis. The public is invited to feast on fried catfish, hush puppies and potato salad for $5 per person. Take-out orders are available.

Entertainment begins at 8 p.m. followed by a dance featuring The Shades from 9-1.

For a $10 donation per person, guests can boogie to the sounds of this versatile and multi-talented musical group from the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Tickets are available at the door. The evening will culminate with the drawing of the name of the winner of the $1,000 raffle.

Tickets for the fish fry, dance and raffle are also available in advance at the Waveland Drug Store on Coleman Ave. in Waveland. For information, call Pat-sy Dubuison at 467-0244.

Country/western dance offered

A country/western dance is scheduled Friday, Aug. 13, 8 until 11 p.m. at the West Side Community Center, Hwy. 90, Gulfport. Beginners and singles are welcome.

The dance is co-sponsored by the Boots 'N' Bows Country Western Dance Club and the Gulfport Parks and Recreation Department. Admission is $3 single, $5 couple or free for members with a club card. For details call 831-4140. Repeats the second Friday of every month.

Dance lessons continue every Thursday 6:30-9 through Oct. 14.

Collectors show planned in Biloxi

The Quality Collectors Show returns to the Holiday Inn-Beachfront (Coliseum) in Biloxi on Friday through Sunday, Aug. 6-8.

Show hours are noon to 7 p.m. on Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Admission is free. Ample free parking is available.

Dealers from all over the South will present stamps, covers, philatelic supplies, coins, currency, gold and silver bullion, jewelry, numismatic supplies, sports cards, sports memorabilia, sports card collectors' supplies, and other collectibles.

Many dealers will offer free appraisals of collectibles. Collectors of all levels, from beginners to experts, as well as interested non-collectors, are invited to come to buy, sell, trade, or just browse among the thousands of items on display.

Wal-Mart donates $10,000 to Gulf Coast Recycling

A $10,000 grant from the Wal-Mart Foundation has been awarded to Gulf Coast Recycling.

It will be used to assist in the continuing development of a curbside recycling program, according to Penny Penrose, GCR executive director.

Presentation of the funds was coordinated by Len Moore, store manager of the Gulfport store on Highway 49.

"The donation supports Wal-Mart Foundation's effort to assist the recycling and environmental programs in communities where its stores are located," said Steve Schwitters, Wal-Mart's director of recycling and reclamation.

Last year the foundation granted approximately $1 million to such community recycling programs.

Gulf Coast Recycling is a non-profit employment project that operates several low tech, cost effective recycling systems. One of these is the curbside recycling system cited for further development.

"It is currently being used by the city of Bay St. Louis and is designed to create local jobs while achieving maximum environmental benefits," said Penrose.

Preserving history

Hancock County Historical Society records the lives and times of the area

BY LIZ HAAS

Volunteers of the Hancock County Historical Society are recording every written word of Hancock County history on computer.

Utilizing seven computers, the volunteers record such sources as church records, cemetery records, magazines, books, wills, deeds, letters, school records, marriage books, phone books and city directories.

Society vice president Charles Gray said a person could find out about the birth, life, baptism, schooling, marriage, business, social events, children, death, burial and cemetery location of ancestors or friends at the Historical Society office.

They are also recording the private collections of Charles Sullivan and the late M.J. Stevens, two of the best known historians of Mississippi Coast history, and all newspapers, including The Sea Coast Echo, back to 1892.

All social, political and commercial information from the newspapers is entered into the computers alphabetically and then chronologically thereafter.

"If this information is not recorded now, it will be lost forever," said Gray.

The information stored in computers is kept in a steel vault.

"With the vault, we can now offer long-time security. It should protect valuables from just about anything," said Gray.

He said the society takes donations of old photos and will make a copy of photographs and documents so the original may be maintained by the owner.

"We have a tremendous number of photographs and encourage people to bring by any photo and allow us to make a copy of it," said Gray.

He said often the society is able to get a better reproduction of a photo than the original by enlarging photos to show more detail.

The Hancock County Historical Society, founded in 1977, has 283 members. Ruth Thompson is president of the society.

The Kate Lobrano House, located at 108 Cue Street, is the society's office. The home, built in 1896, was donated to the society in 1989 by the Lobrano family.

Displayed on the computer room walls are about 150 photographs of local homes and buildings. Some of the homes have been destroyed by fire or storm while others remain, either pretty much in their original design or completely changed by some modernization process.

In the walk-in vault there are several large albums of additional photographs which are arranged in street address order, with notes about previous owners or occupants.

In addition, the society has a collection of photographs of every beach front property in Bay St. Louis four days after Hurricane Camille.

The Historical Society had 494 volunteer hours during the month of June, with an average of 15-20 visitors a day.

"This society has a national reputation," said Gray.

Bay St. Louis ranks third for the largest national registry for historical places in the state, with over 570 houses in the area listed on the National Registry of Historical Places.

Bay St. Louis, incorporated in 1817, was the first city incorporated in the state of Mississippi, and is the third oldest city on the Gulf of Mexico.

The Historical Society survives through donations and memberships.

There is no charge for researching or copying materials, but the society does take donations, which are 100 percent tax deductible.

The Kate Lobrano House is open to the public for research or simply to visit Monday through Saturday. Regular hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and 8 to 10 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Sea campers

Marine environment studied by more than 1,200 youths

More than 1,200 young people from 25 states and two foreign countries are participating in GCRL's Project Marine Discovery Sea Camp this summer at the J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi.

The successful summer educational day camp, now in its sixth year, is co-sponsored by the Laboratory and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium.

Sea Camp uses laboratory demonstrations, arts and crafts, chalk talks, role playing, hands-on experiences, island excursions, hikes, beachcombing, and other activities to teach campers about the plants, animals, habitats and processes of the marine environment.

The week includes an excursion aboard the sailing schooner Glen L. Swetman and a boat trip for older campers to the western shore of Ship Island, one of Mississippi's five barrier islands for beachcombing, water chemistry testing, cast-netting, seining and sieving.

The Sea Camp educational staff includes MEC&A marine educators and docents, teachers from area elementary and secondary schools, and college and secondary school students who serve as instructors, teaching assistants and aides.

Registration for next year's Sea Camp session will begin January 1994. For more information, contact the MEC&A at 374-5550.

Project Marine Discovery honored

Project Marine Discovery, an educational program co-sponsored by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, has been chosen as a model program of environmental excellence by Renew America, a national organization dedicated to tracking, verifying and advancing community-based environmental solutions.

Renew America collaborated with 30 of the nation's leading environmental groups which comprise the National Environmental Awards Council to recognize Project Marine Discovery and 1,600 other programs to be included in the fourth edition of Renew America's Environmental Success Index, a comprehensive annual listing of environmental success stories.

Of these programs, 20 top programs will be selected as national winners and recognized at Renew America's conference and awards ceremony Oct. 13-15 in Washington D.C.

Project Marine Discovery, headquartered at GCRL's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi, acquaints students in preschool through high school with the plants, animals, habitats and processes of the marine environment.

Project Marine Discovery includes academic year field trips, a summer Sea Camp, hands-on preschool activities, monthly public seminars, overnight aquarium "camp-ins" for Scouts, a traveling outreach program, and other special programs tailored to meet the needs of specific students and groups.

"This recognition is a tribute to a wonderful team of dedicated educators and volunteers," said Dr. Sharon H. Walker, MEC&A administrator and a Project Marine Discovery founder.

"Renew America is pleased to honor Project Marine Discovery's commitment to improving the environment," stated Dale Didion, Renew America executive director. "Project Marine Discovery serves as a model to help other communities solve pressing environmental problems."

Aquarium to welcome 5 millionth visitor

The Aquarium of the Americas expects to welcome its 5 millionth visitor during the first week in August — nearly three years ahead of schedule.

Since opening in September 1990, the aquarium has continued to double its original attendance projection of 868,000 visitors a year.

After a record 2.3 million visitors in its first year of operation, the facility now averages 1.4 million annually — making it one of the nation's busiest aquariums.

The five millionth visitor will be welcomed with festive decorations by Decor Inc. and a prize package including a trip for two to the Victoria House island resort on Ambergris Caye ("Caye" pronounced Key) in Belize.

A lifetime membership to the aquarium, a VIP behind-the-scenes tour including a chance to feed the sharks, plus an evening of "Dining with the Sharks" for family and friends in the aquarium's board room, which overlooks the Gulf of Mexico exhibit.

To further honor the 5 millionth visitor, each party visiting the aquarium between Monday, Aug. 2 and Sunday, Aug. 8 — the week the special visitor is expected — will receive one free child's admission to Audubon Zoo.

With its Phase II expansion scheduled for groundbreaking by year's end, the Aquarium of the Americas is set to continue its course as one of the most successful aquariums in the country.

Phase II will include a 350-seat IMAX theater, set to open in 1995, and a 12,000-square foot gallery dedicated to changing exhibits.

The Aquarium of the Americas, named as one of the nation's best aquariums in a March 1993 issue of Parade Magazine, is open daily except Christmas and Mardi Gras. For information, call (604) 861-2537, extension 500.

New company features Mississippi products

Special to the Echo
By Bethany Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications
Mississippi Product Sales Inc. hopes to help state schools raise money while keeping tax dollars at home by offering both public and private schools a fund-raising plan featuring only Mississippi-made products.

Company creator and president Tim Tyler of Greenwood said the company is one-of-a-kind.

"We are the only fund-raising company that carries products made exclusively by Mississippi food manufacturers," Tyler said. "Other companies offer products made out-of-state. We're keeping the business and the money here at home."

The Greenwood company's "handmade" product line includes cinnamon pecan cookies, praline pecans, peanut brittle and a selection of pie mixes.

"We've got high-quality products such as Mississippi Delta fudge pie mix, magnolia macaroon pie mix, buttery peanut brittle and sweet pecan products," Tyler said. "All products are handmade with no additives or preservatives."

Tyler's suppliers include Wheeler's Pecan House and the Crown restaurant, both in Indianola. Pie mixes from the Crown restaurant also are sold in gift shops in the Smithsonian Institution and in the Peabody in Memphis.

Tyler said the suppliers' tax money for manufacturing products for the company stays in Mississippi, where it can benefit education and other state needs.

"In the next few weeks, I'll be sending letters explaining this fund-raising opportunity to elementary and middle schools statewide," Tyler said.

To ensure that the company was off to a good start, Tyler sought help from the Small Business Development Center in Greenville, the Small Business Administration in Jackson and the Food and Fiber Center at Mississippi State University.

"At the Food and Fiber Center, I met with a team of professionals that made me aware of all of the different products available," Tyler said. "We worked with the Mississippi Specialty Food Association and reviewed my business plans."

"All of the suppliers were very interested and enthusiastic about the fund-raising idea," said Dr. Ken Hood, economist for the food and fiber center. "It's such a good idea to sell Mississippi-made products in state schools."

Tyler worked in non-profit fund raising for more than three years, dealing with school systems.

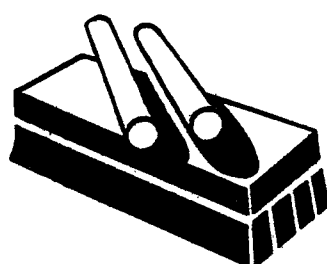

"I have dealt with school fund raising before, and I saw the need for this type of program," Tyler said. "I saw all of the out-of-state merchandise used in fund-raising programs, and I saw dissatisfaction from many of the customers. I believe that our products will be more appealing."

Long-term goals for Tyler include expansion of the company's selection to include many different products from a variety of Mississippi manufacturers.

Kindergarten Night set at Waveland Elementary

The kindergarten teachers of Waveland Elementary will host Kindergarten Night on August 10 at 7 p.m.

Parents and kindergarten students are invited to meet the kindergarten staff and learn more about the kindergarten program at Waveland Elementary.

Taylor to address USM graduates

Rep. Gene Taylor will address nearly 1,300 candidates for graduation at the University of Southern Mississippi's summer commencement Aug. 6.

The Bay St. Louis native will address degree candidates, faculty, families and friends during the 6:30 p.m. commencement in Reed Green Coliseum on the Hattiesburg campus.

USM President Aubrey K. Lucas will confer some 1,282 degrees to a summer graduating class that includes 719 undergraduates and 563 graduates. USM fall classes are scheduled to begin Aug. 23.

Taylor, 39, a former sales representative for Stone Container Corp. of New Orleans, began his political career in 1981 on the Bay St. Louis City Council and in 1983 was elected to the Mississippi State Senate. He was re-elected to the same position in 1987 without opposition.

Taylor is married to the former Margaret Gordon of Bay St. Louis. The couple has three children: Sarah, 13, Emily, 10, and Gary, 4.

Carter earns dean's list

Bowdoin College has announced that Jennifer B. Carter of Pass Christian has been named to the dean's list on the basis of her scholastic achievements during the Spring semester of 1992-93 academic year.

Students who in a given semester receive grades of A or B in four full-credit courses are placed on the dean's list for that semester.

Burton recognized

Hancock High School teacher Suzette Burton was recognized as a public school district Teacher of the Year by the Mississippi Department of Education.

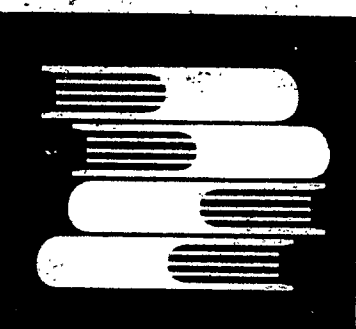

Burton will compete for the state title in September.

Bay Jr. High schedules orientation

Bay Junior High School invites students and parents to an orientation session Wednesday, August 11 at 7 p.m. in the Robert V. Magee auditorium.

Following orientation, school schedules and maps will be distributed and students and their parents are invited to an open house to meet teachers in their respective classrooms.

In addition, school policies and procedures will be discussed.

Pass High, Middle schedules available

Pass Christian High School and Pass Christian Middle School students are invited to their respective schools to pick up schedules for the 1993-94 school year.

The schedules will be available in each school starting Aug. 5 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

High school students need to report to the high school library and middle school students report to the north building on their campus. Students are encouraged to pick up their schedules and review them early.

Scardino goes abroad as science ambassador

BY LIZ HAAS

Mary Scardino, 17, of Pass Christian recently returned from a three-week marine biology and zoology expedition to New Zealand and Australia as a science ambassador from the U.S.

She was nominated and accepted through the People to People Student Ambassador Programs.

"I always wanted to go to Australia and this was an opportunity for me to combine it with my interest in science," she said.

The purpose of the ambassador programs is to broaden youths relationships with other countries and make them more aware of international science.

"All of the ambassadors were interested in science," she said. There were different delegations from all over the U.S. going to four countries.

Scardino was with 30 students from the southeastern delegation, made up of representatives from Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Puerto Rico. The average age was 16.

She left June 29 for New Zealand.

Their first stop was the Marine Education and Recreation Center (MERC), where the group was taught marine biology.

Some of their stops included Auckland's hot springs, a zoo, the extinct volcano Mt. Eden, Kelly Tarlton's Underwater World and the War Memorial Museum. Here they also learned wall climbing to prepare for the many mountain hikes ahead.

In addition, ambassadors learned to feed sheep, shear sheep and herd cattle with the use of dog calls.

"The people there are so nice. They go out of their way to do anything for you," she said.

The group visited the Sydney Aquarium, the largest aquarium in the Southern hemisphere, and saw hot springs and boiling mud pools.

In the Australia Wildlife Park, they got to feed and pet animals native to the area, like koalas and kangaroos.

"We learned a lot about different types of native animals and their eating habits," said Scardino.

In Fitroy Island, the group went snorkeling and scuba diving near reefs.

"There is so much more down in the water than you could possibly imagine. I learned a lot about corals and sealife, their lifestyles, habits, what they eat and how they reproduce," she said.

Scardino said, while diving, the group saw an 8-foot sand tiger shark.

Scardino said, "Throughout back—it reminds me of here," she said.

The group went skylining down a mountain and did a constellation study.

Scardino said the group did night activities.

"We filtered water through sand nets and studied the micro-organisms," she said.

"I loved it. The trip the trip, we learned so much about marine biology and zoology because we were actually doing it."

They learned how to identify fish with the use of tables, and recognize which ones were poisonous.

"The corals are huge and the fish are beautiful," she said.

The group went into the rainforest and learned survival there and in the Outback.

"Everyone there is really laid broadened my understanding and respect for other countries," she said.

She said, "It made me realize that marine biology is definitely what I want to pursue."

Scardino said she plans to pursue a degree in environmental engineering and a master's in oceanography.

"It's so gorgeous over there—I'm ready to go back," she said.

Scardino is entering her senior year at Our Lady Academy.

Wicktom represents Ole Miss Phi Beta Lambda conference

Barry Wicktom of Pass Christian was part of a team from The University of Mississippi Gamma Tau chapter of Future Business Leaders of America — Phi Beta Lambda, capturing top honors at the organization's state conference held in Jackson.

The group represented Ole Miss in various academic competitions against 44 other colleges and universities and garnered ten awards overall — including seven first place awards, two second place awards and one fourth place award.

Wicktom, a senior at Ole Miss, is a graduate of Hancock High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Wicktom Jr.

"We are the only fund-raising company that carries products made exclusively by Mississippi food manufacturers," Tyler said. "Other companies offer products made out-of-state. We're keeping the business and the money here at home."

The Greenwood company's "handmade" product line includes cinnamon pecan cookies, praline pecans, peanut brittle and a selection of pie mixes.

"We've got high-quality products such as Mississippi Delta fudge pie mix, magnolia macaron pie mix, buttery peanut brittle and sweet pecan products," Tyler said. "All products are handmade with no additives or preservatives."

Tyler's suppliers include Wheeler's Pecan House and the Crown restaurant, both in Indianola. Pie mixes from the Crown restaurant also are sold in gift shops in the Smithsonian Institution and in the Peabody in Memphis.

Tyler said the suppliers' tax money for manufacturing products for the company stays in Mississippi, where it can benefit education and other state needs.

"In the next few weeks, I'll be sending letters explaining this fund-raising opportunity to elementary and middle schools statewide," Tyler said.

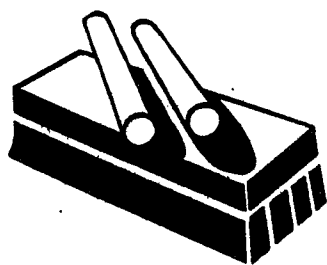

To ensure that the company was off to a good start, Tyler sought help from the Small Business Development Center in Greenville, the Small Business Administration in Jackson and the Food and Fiber Center at Mississippi State University.

"At the Food and Fiber Center, I met with a team of professionals that made me aware of all of the different products available," Tyler said. "We worked with the Mississippi Specialty Food Association and reviewed my business plans."

New company features Mississippi products

Special to the Echo
By Bethany Waldron
MSU Ag Communications
Mississippi Product Sales
Inc. hopes to help state schools raise money while keeping tax dollars at home by offering both public and private schools a fund-raising plan featuring only Mississippi-made products.

Company creator and president Tim Tyler of Greenwood said the company is one-of-a-kind.

"We are the only fund-raising company that carries products made exclusively by Mississippi food manufacturers," Tyler said. "Other companies offer products made out-of-state. We're keeping the business and the money here at home." The Greenwood company's "handmade" product line includes cinnamon pecan cookies, praline pecans, peanut brittle and a selection of pie mixes.

"At the Food and Fiber Center, I met with a team of professionals that made me aware of all of the different products available," Tyler said. "We worked with the Mississippi Specialty Food Association and reviewed my business plans."

"All of the suppliers were very interested and enthusiastic about the fund-raising idea," said Dr. Ken Hood, economist for the food and Fiber Center. "It's such a good idea to sell Mississippi-made products in state schools."

Tyler worked in non-profit fund raising for more than three years, dealing with school systems.

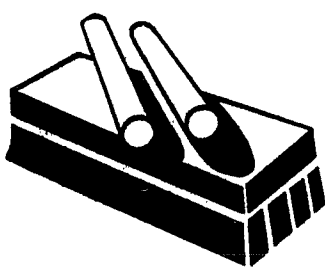

"I have dealt with school fund raising before, and I saw the need for this type of program," Tyler said. "I saw all of the out-of-state merchandise used in fund-raising programs, and I saw dissatisfaction from many of the customers. I believe that our products will be more appealing."

Long-term goals for Tyler include expansion of the company's selection to include many different products from a variety of Mississippi manufacturers.

Scardino goes abroad as science ambassador

BY LIZ HAAS

Mary Scardino, 17, of Pass Christian recently returned from a three-week marine biology and zoology expedition to New Zealand and Australia as a science ambassador from the U.S.

She was nominated and accepted through the People to People Student Ambassador Programs.

"I always wanted to go to Australia and this was an opportunity for me to combine it with my interest in science," she said.

The purpose of the ambassador programs is to broaden youths relationships with other countries and make them more aware of international science.

"All of the ambassadors were interested in science," she said.

There were different delegations from all over the U.S. going to four countries.

Scardino was with 30 students from the southeastern delegation, made up of representatives from Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Puerto Rico. The average age was 16.

She left June 29 for New Zealand.

Their first stop was the Marine Education and Recreation Center (MERC), where the group was taught marine biology.

Some of their stops included Auckland's hot springs, a zoo, the extinct volcano Mt. Eden, Kelly Tarlton's Underwater World and the War Memorial Museum. Here they also learned wall climbing to prepare for the many mountain hikes ahead.

In addition, ambassadors learned to feed sheep, shear sheep and herd cattle with the use of dog calls.

"The people there are so nice. They go out of their way to do anything for you," she said.

The group visited the Sydney Aquarium, the largest aquarium in the Southern hemisphere, and saw hot springs and boiling mud pools.

In the Australia Wildlife Park, they got to feed and pet animals native to the area, like koalas and kangaroos.

"We learned a lot about different types of native animals and their eating habits," said Scardino.

In Fitroy Island, the group went snorkeling and scuba diving near reefs.

"There is so much more down in the water than you could possible imagine. I learned a lot about corals and sealife, their lifestyles, habits, what they eat and how they reproduce," she said.

Scardino said, while diving, the group saw an 8-foot sand tiger shark.
